Joy Road: My Journey from Addiction to Recovery

Joy Road is a memoir by Julie Evans, a change-of-life baby born in 1956 who spent much of her Midwestern childhood nurturing her alcoholic mother and chronically ill father. Both parents died while she was still a teen. Evans takes readers on a tumultuous ride from the 1950s through the '90s as she struggles to find herself, developing addictions to sex, drugs, alcohol and nicotine. In the end it's her experiences as a wild-life rehabilitator, and the wise counsel of a country pastor that rescue her and usher her into a life of service. Peopled with a memorable cast of characters, her saga is by turns shocking, humorous and inspiring. Softcover, 275 pages, trim size 6 by 8 inches. Published by WoodstockArts in 2019. ISBN: 9780967926896. $19.95. (Also available from Ingram and Baker & Taylor.)

"Joy Road is paved with uncertainty and grace." ~Anne Lamott

Living Large: Wilna Hervey and Nan Mason

This rollicking dual biography by Joseph P. Eckhardt captures, through deft and engrossing storytelling, the adventures and enduring love affair of the two "Big Girls" of Woodstock, NY (also Carmel, CA and Anna Maria Island, FL). It tells the tale of Wilna Hervey as the Toonerville Trolley's Powerful Katrinka, silent comedy film star. And it includes the artistic endeavors of Hervey and Mason, along with their many friends (Frank Capra, Edward Weston, Eugene Speicher et al.). The book took Gold in the IBPA's 2016 Benjamin Franklin Awards (LGBT); and it won Silver (LGBT), Bronze (Biography) and was a finalist (Art) in Foreword Reviews' 2015 INDIEFAB Book of the Year Awards. It has 79 color illustrations and 101 black-and-white images. Hardcover, 200 pages, trim size 8 by 10 inches. It has end notes and an index. Published by WoodstockArts in 2015. ISBN: 9780967926889. $39.50. (Also available from Ingram and Baker & Taylor.)

Under the North Light: The Life and Work of Maud and Miska Petersham

"This biography looks at the lives of two of the most influential illustrators of children's books in the 20th century, and is of interest to scholars, librarians and art students. In lively prose, [Lawrence] Webster recounts how two artists with disparate beginnings met in a New York art institute in 1912, married, and collaborated on exquisite award-winning children's books for more than 40 years," writes School Library Journal. This book is a winner of the 2013 Independent Publisher Award, the 2013 Benjamin Franklin Award, and the 2012 ForeWord Book of the Year Award, all in the biography category. It has 146 color photos and 56 black-and-white images, with a foreword by Philip and Erin Stead, the Caldecott-winning author and illustrator. Hardcover, 192 pages, trim size 8 by 10 inches, with end notes and an index. Published by WoodstockArts in 2012. ISBN: 9780967926865. $39.50. (Also available from Ingram and Baker & Taylor.)

Roots of the 1969 Woodstock Festival: The Backstory to "Woodstock"

Explains definitively and for the first time why the festival was named Woodstock and why it continues to be so closely associated with the town even though the concert actually occurred in Bethel, NY. Catskill Mountain Region Guide called this book "a fascinating read: there's an interesting story on every page, and it is a must-have for anyone interested in the Woodstock Festival, the history of Woodstock, or the counter cultural movement in the United States." Foreword by Bob Fass, host of WBAI's Radio Unnameable. Two maps and 115 black-and-white images. Softcover, 160 pages, trim size 5.5 by 8.5 inches. Published by WoodstockArts in 2009. ISBN: 9780967926858. $19.95. (Also available from Ingram and Baker & Taylor.)

Woodstock History and Hearsay

Prize-winning art book second edition by Anita M. Smith. According to Choice Magazine, "[the] story of this important arts community, one of the US's oldest, is told from the sensitive perspective of Smith—painter, writer and famed herbalist who arrived in Woodstock in 1912. Her approach blends shrewd scholarship, biography and hearsay. Summing up: Recommended. All Levels." This book was a 2007 Independent Publisher Award winner and a finalist, ForeWord 2007 Book of the Year. Hardcover, the trim size is 8.5 by 11 inches, with 335 pages, 7 maps, 170 black-and-white photos and 19 color images. Published by WoodstockArts in 2009. ISBN: 9780967926841. $37.50. (Also available from Ingram and Baker & Taylor.)

It Happened in Woodstock

Popularized and updated version of Anita M. Smith's original 1959 classic, Woodstock: History and Hearsay. Completely executed in reverse lithography, with cobalt blue ink. Tells the story of Woodstock, NY from the time of the Amerindians up through the 1969 Woodstock Festival, drawing on history, legend, and the words of local artists and artisans. Contains over 70 illustrations, including halftones, a map, and original work by such well-known artists as George Bellows, John F. Carlson, Konrad Cramer, Lucile Blanch and Henry Mattson. Softcover, 165 pages, trim size 5.5 by 8.5 inches. Published by Stonecrop in 1972. ISBN: 0980967926810. $15.00. SALE PRICE: $7.95.

The Improbable Community: Camp Woodland and the American Democratic Ideal

"Tells the story of a remarkable summer camp in the Catskill Mountains of New York. From 1939 to 1962 Camp Woodland created an educational experience that fostered a unique community . . ." (Joe Hickerson, Archive of Folk Song Culture and former Camp Counselor) Author Bill Horne, a healthcare and civil rights attorney and camper from 1950 through 1960, relates how the "visionary educator and camp director, Norman Studer succeeded in this grand experiment. Pete Seeger was a frequent visitor; "Where Have All the Flowers Gone" and "Guantanamo" became favorites at the camp and went on to national acclaim. Other musical alums of the camp include Eric Weissberg, Bruce Langhorne, John Herald, Janis Ian and John Cohen. Softcover, 165 pages, 95 images, trim size 6 by 9 inches. Published in 2016. ISBN: 9780971033719. $19.50.

Walking Woodstock: Journeys into the Wild Heart of America's Most Famous Small Town

At a poetry gathering one evening, authors Michael Perkins and Will Nixon decided to walk across Woodstock—not just the modern town of busy roads, but the older village of bluestone quarries, abandoned forest paths and mountain views they had all to themselves. Walking Woodstock collects their adventures, many first published in the Woodstock Times, that ranged from the delights of finding spring flowers to the fears of a mountain rescue. Full of humor, friendship, nature, hikers' lore and walkers' musings, these journeys reveal the wild heart that beats in all of us when we set forth to explore our home terrain on foot. Softcover, 236 pages, trim size 6 by 9 inches. Published by Bushwhack Books in 2009. ISBN: 9781935534396. $18.95.

The Woodstock Flaneur: A Saunterer's Intimate Portrait of the World's Most Famous Small Town by Michael Perkins

Chronicles from the Colony of the Arts: Armed with his wit and his walking stick, Michael Perkins appointed himself the Woodstock Flaneur, the idle stroller who records the “untold” stories of artists, eccentrics, country folks, and urban refugees drawn to this world-famous arts colony. At bars, gallery openings, poetry readings or simply by sitting on the Village Green, he has met an unforgettable array of humanity over the decades from hippies to millennials. Softcover, 184 pages, trim size 9 by 6 inches. Published by Bushwhack Books in 2018. ISBN: 9780988639850, $18.95. “Masterpieces of tender wickedness bringing us the news from Tinker Street . . . in dispatches as wittily gossipy as they are moving and profound.” ~ James Lasdun, author of The Horned Man and Seven Lies

The Pocket Guide to Woodstock

This popular guide by Will Nixon has been completely updated and revised. Join Nixon for a personal tour of places he's explored on foot over the years. Learn about the early Dutch settlers and witches, the bluestone quarries and tanneries, the bohemian arts colony, the historic hotels on Overlook Mountain, the concert that didn't happen here, the 1960s rock 'n' rollers including Bob Dylan and Levon Helm, the promoters and the eccentrics, the legends and the history that have made Woodstock world famous. Softcover, 218 pages, trim size 4.5 by 7 inches. Published by Bushwhack Books in 2019. ISBN: 9780988639874. $14.95.

Acrostic Woodstock: Poems by Will Nixon

In more than seventy poems, Will Nixon offers a portrait of Woodstock, NY, a village of beloved shops, free spirits, artistic traditions, spiritual refuges, and unexpected moments of humor and grace. Poems recall Levon Helm's Midnight Ramble or the night Jimi Hendrix played the Tinker Street Cinema. All sides of Woodstock life find their way into the book. An afterward, “The Stories Behind the Poems,” provides further history and lore. Softcover, 88 pages, trim size 8 by 8 inches. Published by Bushwhack Books in 2015. ISBN: 9780988639843. $12.95.

A Title from Mountain Arts Media

Heroes for Hire: A Tall Tale of the Catskills

This is a rollicking good story of the Woodstock summer of '69. John Kincheloe and his twin brother, George, hungover from the previous night's leave-taking, arrive at their college summer-job destination by driving through it. Seems George has signed the lads on, for two months, as farmhands at the Delaware County dairy farm of Roland and Faye Van Benschten. It's in tiny New Kingston in the Catskills, as far into the boondocks as these two city boys had ever been. What follows is a never-to-be-forgotten summer with a cast of remarkable country characters. It's a summer that ends—you guessed it—at Max Yasgar's farm. Softcover, 172 pages, trim size 6 by 8.5 inches. By John Marshall Kincheloe (father of Sister Sparrow and the Dirty Birds' bandmates Arleigh and Jackson Kincheloe); published by Mountain Arts Media in 2018. $20.00.

Two books about Opus 40

Opus 40: The First 20 Years Pictures from the Opus 40 Archives

In 1938 Harvey Fite (1903—1976), one of the co-founders of the Bard College Fine Arts Department, purchased an abandoned quarry in Saugerties, NY, about 100 miles north of New York City. Over a period of 37 years he created a monumental 6.5 acre rock sculpture known as Opus 40. According to Brendon Gill of Architectural Digest, "Opus 40 is the greatest earthworks sculpture I have ever seen." Opus 40: The First 20 Years is written by Tad Richards, Mr. Fite's stepson, and it tells the story of the creation of Opus 40 in words and close to 80 black-and-white pictures. Softcover, 111 pages, trim size 6 by 9 inches. Published in 2012 by Opus 40. $18.00.

Harvey Fite's Opus 40

"About one-hundred miles from New York City, tucked in a pocket of the Catskills in the township of Saugerties, New York, lies one of the most extraordinary pieces of sculpture ever created by a single man. The work is an immense composition of finely fitted stone, rising in ramps and swirling terraces around pools and trees and fountains out of the rock bed of an abandoned bluestone quarry." So begins author Jonathan Richards in this homage to the work of his stepfather, Harvey Fite. With 16 pages, 1 color and 31 black-and-white photos, trim size 8 by 9 inches. Published in 1986 by Opus 40. $8.00.

Through the Stony Clove to the Mountaintop Towns, by John M. Ham

The Kaaterskill and Hunter branches of New York Central's West Shore Railroad were located primarily in Hunter Township in Greene County, New York. They were a part of the grand old Ulster and Delaware Railroad that had fallen on hard times during the Great Depression and were unceremoniously taken over by the New York Central in February 1932. The Central had no intention of keeping them running, but the two branch lines operated considerably longer than anticipated. This pictorial publication shows the planned demise of the branches from 1936 until abandonment and subsequent removal of the rails in 1940. Softcover, 48 pages, trim size 8.5 by 11 inches. Published by Stony Clove and Catskill Mountain Press in 2018. $17.95.

Rails Above the Hudson River: "The Poughkeepsie Bridge Route" Joining New England with the West

Histories of the various railroads leading to the completion of the great Poughkeepsie Railroad Bridge have been published by several different authors and railroad historians. But this publication ties everything together in a single, heavily illustrated, hardcover book that takes the reader from the great yards at Maybrook, New York, across the Hudson to Hartford and to the Cedar Hill Yards at New Haven.

A short narrative of significant historic subject matter is followed by coverage of more than one hundred different station stops. Authors John M. Ham and Roger A. Liller have gathered more than 600 quality photographs—many in color—as well as maps, passes, and timetables. Each picture is accompanied by a descriptive caption that helps tell the story. 320 pages, trim size 9 by 11.5 inches. Published by Stony Clove and Catskill Mountain Press in 2020. $74.95.

From Grand Central to Albany: New York Central's Water Level Route Along the Scenic Hudson River

This book focuses on the glory years of the New York Central railroad, using a multitude of magnificent steam and early diesel pictures taken along the Water Level Route by some of the most noted twentieth century photographers. Many of the images have never previously been published.

Author John M. Ham, working with railroad historians Roger A. Liller and Eugene C. Dauner, includes not only superb New York Central photos, but also images of connecting railroads and industries of all sorts that were served by the Central in one capacity or another—even mining railroads.

The book contains more than 650 black-and-white and color images. Hardcover, 336 pages, trim size 9 by 11.5 inches. Published by Stony Clove and Catskill Mountain Press in 2021. $79.95.

From Gotham to the Berkshires: New York Central's Harlem Division

John Ham's story of the old New York and Harlem Railroad begins back in 1831 when New York City authorized construction of a horse-drawn streetcar system for Manhattan Island. Over the decades this evolved into a major commuter railroad connecting upstate communities with the city. This book is not a detailed narrative of the New York Central System's Harlem Division. Rather it is a photographic look at the history of this railroad that was the driving force in developing the region along the eastern border of New York State from New York City to the heart of the Berkshires in Western Massachusetts. Includes nearly 600 images, maps and timetables. Hardcover, 304 pages, trim size 9 by 11 inches. Published by Stony Clove and Catskill Mountain Press in 2019. $64.95.

Those Good Old Days in the Land of Rip Van Winkle: A Panoramic Recollection of Old Hunter in the Catskills

For a century and a half, Hunter, New York in Greene County has been a prime vacation destination. Join author John M. Ham on a walk back through time to view scenes from this historic area along the Rip Van Winkle Trail. Includes a multitude of high-quality early photographs of Hunter, Tannersville, Haines Falls and environs—with grand old hotels, unsurpassed scenery, railroads, local businesses and the people of the mountain-top. Hardcover, trim size 8.5 by 11 inches. Published in 2012 by Stony Clove and Catskill Mountain Press. ISBN: 9780972070966. $49.95.

Catskill Mountain Snow Trains of The New York Central Railroad: 1936-1947

During the 1930s and 1940s, reports of snow in the mountains prompted trainloads of ski enthusiasts to travel to the Catskills to enjoy the great outdoors. In this book John M. Ham celebrates the story of the "Ski Specials" with graphics and vintage black-and-white photos. Softcover, 16 pages, trim size 8.5 by 11 inches. Published in 2010 by Stony Clove and Catskill Mountain Press. $7.50.

The Last Train Over Catskill Mountain Rails

On September 28, 1976, Conrail ran the last train from Kingston, NY to Stamford, NY. John M. Ham documented this historical journey via text and photos. Trim size is 11.5 by 8.5 inches with 15 pages. Published in 2011 by Stony Clove and Catskill Mountain Press. $5.95

Fire Towers of the Catskills: Their History and Lore* by Martin Podskoch

This fascinating chronicle of Catskill Mountain fire towers includes the history of the towers that once stood vigil over the heavily forested slopes, serving those on the lookout for signs of smoke that could lead to devastating fires. It also contains many period pictures of the towers and the folks responsible for this often lonely, rugged work. Increasing from three in 1909 to twenty-three by 1950, the towers gradually gave way to aerial surveillance and then reports by the public. In 1990 Red Hill Tower was the last to close in the Catskills. The book also describes the restoration of five towers by local volunteers in neighboring towns. Softcover, 136 pages, trim size 8.5 by 11 inches. Published by Podskoch Press in 2012. ISBN: 9780979497957. $20.00.

Adirondack Fire Towers: Their History and Lore, The Southern Districts

Marty Podskoch, a retired Middle School teacher, travelled far and wide interviewing the rangers, observers and families associated with the towers. He also lectures throughout the Catskills and Adirondacks. Hardcover with 396 vintage and contemporary black-and-white images and maps; 282 pages; trim size 9 by 11 inches. Includes notes and index. Published by Podskoch Press in 2017. ISBN: 9780997101904. $24.95.

Adirondack Stories, Historical Sketches

Written by Martin Podskach with pictures by Sam Glanzman, this book features 150 illustrated panels of famous Adirondack guides, hunters, hermits, hotels, writers, photographers, explorers and stories about mining, tanneries, railroads, boats, sports, entertainers, and amusement parks. According to Don Williams, author of Inside the Adirondack Blue Line, "Marty Podskach and his illustrator, Sam Glanzman, have captured single bits of Adirondack history and lore and presented them in a format that has stood the test of time. Both Marty and Sam have made a major contribution to the body of Adirondack literature by raising up a wealth of Adirondack stories and illustrating them for our understanding." Softcover, 168 pages. 8.5 by 11 inches. Published by Podskoch Press in 2017. ISBN: 9780979497902. $20.00.

Adirondack Civilian Conservation Corps Camps: History, Memories, and Legacy of the CCC*, by Martin Podskach

The CCC was a public works program that operated from 1933 to 1942 as part of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal. It targeted single men, eighteen to twenty-five, as well as veterans that had difficulty finding jobs during the Great Depression. The program provided unskilled manual labor to environmental conservation and to development of natural resources. The U.S. Army supervised the camps, with 200 men at each. There were eventually twenty-six such camps in the Adirondacks. Page count of this softcover book is 352 with a trim size of 8.5 by 11.5 inches. Published by Podskoch Press in 2011. ISBN: 9780979497940. $20.00.

Shop Drawings for Byrdcliffe Furniture: 28 American Arts & Crafts Period Masterpieces / Measured & Drawn by Robert W. Lang

The Byrdcliffe colony was a short-lived but important producer of furniture in the American Arts & Crafts period of the early 20th century. This distinctive furniture featured colorful carved designs created by Zulma Steele and Edna Walker. Robert W. Lang, author of the "Shop Drawings" series of books about Craftsman furniture and interiors, researched these pieces and has created detailed drawings for the construction of 28 pieces from Byrdcliffe, utilizing both original pieces and drawings.

Introductory chapters explore the history of the colony and the people responsible for creating this unique line of furniture, including colony founder Ralph Radcliffe Whitehead, Bolton Brown, Dawson Dawson-Watson, and chief designers Steele and Walker. These chapters contain both period and contemporary photographs. The drawings allow for the construction of reproductions or a deeper study of these designs.

Robert W. Lang has been building furniture since the 1970s and writing about the process since the late 1990s. He is the author of Shop Drawings for Craftsman Furniture and Woodworkers Guide to SketchUp. He was formerly the executive editor and project illustrator for Popular Woodworking magazine and currently edits American Period Furniture, the annual journal of the Society of American Period Furniture Makers. Born and raised in northeastern Ohio, he currently lives in the Cincinnati area.

This softcover book has 226 pages, more than 40 color images, and close to 300 black-and-white photos, drawings, and charts. Its trim size is 8.5 by 11 inches. Copyright 2020 by RWD Publishing. $45.00.

Woodstock Artists Association: One Hundred Years of Community and Art

This handsome volume celebrates the centennial of the Woodstock Artists Association, the historic organization founded by artists in 1919. The evolution of the WAA parallels the history of twentieth-century American art, with some unique variations. It includes famous artists such as George Bellows, John Flannagan, Yasuo Kuniyoshi, Bradley Walker Tomlin and Philip Guston, as well as lesser-known artists whose works are now receiving increasing attention. Woodstock was a center for ambitious and motivated women artists, whose contributions look especially relevant at present—and play a significant role in the book. The history of the Association and the controversies and artistic innovations that accompanied it, are examined in essays by art historians Tom Wolf (Bard College) and Bruce Weber. An extensive chronology by Emily R. Jones summarizes the development of the organization, which is still dynamic today. Foreword by Janice LaMotta. The book is beautifully illustrated with 122 full-page, full-color images plus many more half-page images. Published by the WAA, this softcover title is an important addition to any library or collection with a focus on American art. The page count is 302 and the trim size is 10 by 10 by 1 inches. ISBN: 9780578546527. ©2019. $55.00.

Byrdcliffe: An American Arts and Crafts Colony

Byrdcliffe was, and remains, a place of haunting beauty. More than a century ago it was established as an arts and crafts colony in the heart of the Catskill Mountains. Craftsmen, writers and musicians came, lured by the atmosphere of creativity amid like-minded people. Furniture, pottery, paintings, metal-work, and textiles were all made here, and the people themselves became an interwoven part of the fabric of the place. This is the story of the first years of the colony, the artists who visited, and the artistic community they fostered. Edited by curator Nancy E. Green, this publication accompanied a 2004 exhibition organized by the Herbert F. Johnson Museum of Art at Cornell University. With 256 pages and a trim size of 9 by 12 inches, this hardcover book includes 229 color and 173 black-and-white images. Published by Cornell University Press in 2015. $70.00.

Bolton Brown: Strength and Solitude

Bolton Brown (1863–1936) co-founded the Byrdcliffe Art Colony in 1902 with Hervey White and Ralph Radcliffe Whitehead. In addition, he was an expert mountaineer and a master lithographer. Over the years he worked closely with George Bellows, Rockwell Kent and John Sloan. This 60-page catalog contains selections from his prints, original drawings and rare oil paintings. The trim size is 8.5 by 10.75 inches and the book includes 30 illustrations. Published by the Woodstock Byrdcliffe Guild in 2014. $20.00.

Music in the Woods: One Hundred Years of Maverick Concerts

In 2015 the Maverick Concerts celebrated their centennial with exhibits sited at the Woodstock Artists Association and Museum (WAAM) and the Woodstock Byrdcliffe Guild (WBG). This 82-page commemorative catalog includes four essays: “Music in the Woods” by exhibition curator Susana Torruella Leval, “John Flannagan’s Maverick Horse” by Tom Wolf, “The Economy of Design” by Olga Touloumi, and “John Cage and the Maverick” by Miriam Villchur Berg. With a trim size of 8.5 by 10 inches, the catalog has 32 color and 49 black-and-white images. Jointly published in 2015 by Maverick Concerts, WAAM and WBG. $25.00.

Georges Malkine: Perfect Surrealist Behavior

Derin Tanyol, with contributions by Fern Malkine-Falvey

Georges Malkine (1898–1970) is known to art history for one act alone: he is the only visual artist named in André Breton’s 1924 Manifesto of Surrealism as a founding participant of Surrealism, originally a literary movement. Malkine’s paintings and drawings hung at the inaugural Surrealist exhibitions in Paris from 1925 to 1928 alongside work by Giorgio de Chirico, Max Ernst, André Masson, Joan Miró, and Man Ray. To date we know that at least 220 of Malkine’s works are in American and European collections. This publication is the first in English on Malkine. The page count is 224 and the trim size is 7.75 by 9 inches. The book is full color and there are 143 illustrations. Published by the Woodstock Artists Association and Museum in 2014. $35.00.

Zulma Steele: Artist/Craftswoman

Zulma Steele (1881–1979) was one of the pioneering women of the Arts and Crafts Movement and Modernism in New York. In 1903 she became one of the first residents of Ralph Radcliffe Whitehead's fledgling arts and crafts colony. Her designs of nature studies, for what became iconic patterned-painted panels, were set into larger Mission-style furniture pieces. She also worked as a painter, printer and ceramist. A retrospective exhibition of her work was held in 2020 at the Kleinert/James Center for the Arts of the Woodstock Byrdcliffe Guild. The catalog is 104 pages and has a trim size of 8 ½ by 10 inches. This softcover book features a foreword by Henry T. Ford, with essays by Tom Wolf, Derin Tanyol and Bruce Weber. The book includes 101 color and 23 black-and-white illustrations. Published in 2020 by the Woodstock Byrdcliffe Guild. $20.

At Woodstock: Kuniyoshi

Written by former show curator and essayist Josephine Bloodgood, this is the catalog prepared for a 2003 retrospective on the work of Yasuo Kuniyoshi. It is softcover and includes 10 color and 60 black-and-white images. The page count is 56 and the trim size is 8.5 by 11 inches. Published by the Woodstock Artists Association in 2003. $15.00.

The Maverick: Hervey White's Colony of the Arts

Co-Curators Josephine Bloodgood and Tom Wolf; essays by Tom Wolf and William B. Rhoads. Josephine Bloodgood was Executive Director of the Woodstock Artists Association and Museum; Tom Wolf is Professor of Art History at Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson, NY; and William Rhoads is Professor Emeritus of Art History at SUNY New Paltz, NY. This is the catalog from the Maverick Art Colony centennial exhibition, which occurred in 2006. The publication is softcover and contains 74 color and 50 black-and-white images (historical photos and artists' work) throughout its 128 pages. The trim size is 8.5 by 11 inches. $30.00.

Manuel Bromberg

Born in 1917, Manuel Bromberg is a painter, muralist, sculptor and influential teacher whose distinguished career spans three-quarters of a century. He was a 1946 Guggenheim Fellow and he has received numerous awards. This catalog includes examples of his work from 1937 to 1971 (Colorado Springs Fine Art Center); the war years (World War II drawings, paintings and photographs); from 1950 to 1955; pastels, portraits and landscapes; strata and relief; cliff sculptures (1968 to 2010) and a biographical chronology. With a trim-size of 6 by 8 inches, it has 96 pages, 61 color and 50 black-and-white images. Published in 2015. ISBN: 9780578160146. $15.00.

Books About the Music of Woodstock

Levon Helm: Rock, Roll & Ramble

This title tells the story of Levon's Midnight Ramble house concerts, which ran from 2004 to 2012 and ignited his once-in-an-era comeback, the glory of which he shared with us all. The book also offers insight into those places that shaped Levon's life—Arkansas, Canada, and Woodstock, New York; and those things he held close to his heart—his family, his friends, his dog Muddy, and Team Levon. The story wouldn't be complete without looking at two things that sculpted Levon Helm as an artist: his film career and the Grammy Awards he proudly won as a solo musician long after his career with The Band was over. Underscore everything is Levon's enduring passion for music.

On hand for the comeback was author and music journalist John W. Barry, who at the time lived in Woodstock and was employed in New York's Hudson Valley as a music writer for the Poughkeepsie Journal. John earned exclusive access to Levon and permission to compile hours upon hours of recordings. With a foreword by Ringo Starr, this softcover book has 318 pages and a trim size of 6 by 9 inches. Published by Barry Books in 2022. $29.95

Levon's Man: Woodstock, the Death of Richard Manuel, and My Decade Managing The Band

Here's an insider's look—behind the scenes of The Band and how they recovered from the suicide of vocalist and pianist Richard Manuel in 1986. Author Joe Forno Jr. writes about the history of Woodstock, where he was born and raised, and how the town embraced musicians as it had artists in the early years of its art colony. Joe became close to the members of The Band, and he managed the group from 1986 through 1994. The reader learns of the tragedies and triumphs of that time, from the deaths of Manuel and Stan Szelest, who replaced him, to the release of Jericho, the first new music by The Band since The Last Waltz. It includes the story of the fire that destroyed Levon Helm's barn, studio, and home—and the subsequent rebuilding. The book traces The Band's performances at the "30th Anniversary Bob Dylan Concert" and at the "Blue Jeans Bash" at the Clinton presidential inauguration in 1993. Levon's Man also tells the story of the 1994 induction of The Band into the Rock & Roll Hall of Fame and their performance at "Woodstock '94," the 25th anniversary of the "Woodstock Festival." This is an unforgettable saga of friendship, loyalty, and celebration of American music and culture at a crossroads. With 233 pages and 37 black-and-white illustrations, this softcover title has a trim size of 6 by 9 inches. It was published by Bearsville Publishing in 2021. $18.95.

The Music in the Walls: Stories and Anecdotes from Tinker Street Café

The legendary Tinker Street Café (TSC) lives on through the stories in this book. Jerry Mitnick has captured some of the great moments in Woodstock's musical history—from 1988 to 1998. Hundreds of musical acts played the TSC, including Burning Spear, Jewel, Hot Tuna, Loudon Wainwright III, Living Color, and the Dave Matthews Band. Get the background dope on these great moments and more. Author Jerry Mitnick is a session musician who co-owned the Tinker Street Café with Freddie Sandel. The book has 140 pages and 28 color and black-and-white images, with a 6-by-9 inch trim size. ©2022. $17.99.

Documentary DVDs About Woodstock, the Catskills and Beyond

The feature-length documentary Mountain River follows the Esopus Creek from its headwaters on Slide Mountain to the Ashokan Reservoir, and on to the Hudson River at Saugerties—a fascinating journey of 65 miles. The story begins with the ancient geologic forces that formed the Catskill Mountains and goes on to explore the Native American and colonial settlements along the Esopus. The documentary covers the history of New York City's Ashokan Reservoir, the development of waterpower on the stream, and the innovative beginnings of the American Industrial Revolution along the Esopus in Saugerties. The film celebrates the Upper Esopus, a world-class trout fishery, a recreational resource, and a critical source of clean, unfiltered water for millions of New Yorkers. Mountain River highlights the continuing environmental challenges and conservation efforts on the creek. The film is filled with personal stories and interviews with experts. It also features a lively mix of contemporary and vintage images and movie footage. Released in 2020, this is the latest film by Tobe Carey of Willow Mixed Media. Running time is 73 minutes. $19.95.

The First Artist in America is the story of John Vanderlyn, the celebrated artist who portrayed seven American presidents, rose to fame as a 19th-century neoclassical history painter, and died penniless and alone in his hometown of Kingston, New York. As the protégé of Aaron Burr, Vanderlyn was the first American artist to study in France, where he began his pursuit of history painting. His self-portrait was the first painting by an American artist shown in the Paris Salon. Vanderlyn's Marius Amid the Ruins of Carthage won a gold medal from Napoleon in the Paris Salon of 1808. His 1814 classical nude Ariadne caused a scandal when shown in New York, requiring separate showings for men and women. In 1818 Vanderlyn opened the first American art gallery—the Rotunda—in New York City, exhibiting 360-degree panoramas, his history paintings and portraits of notables such as presidents Madison and Monroe. His 125-foot Panorama of Versailles is now at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. This documentary is also by noted filmmaker Tobe Carey. ©2017. Running time is 76 minutes. $19.95.

"As with many another artist Vanderlyn died penniless, but left an indelible mark on the art scene. An interesting portrait of a lesser-known American artist, this is recommended (three stars)." ~ Video Librarian

Of Rails to the Catskills Tobe Carey says: "I had been asked for years to make a film about railroads." This DVD highlights the cultural and economic impact of railroads on the Catskill Mountain region—from their emergence after the Civil War, through the prosperity of the Gilded Age to eventual mergers and bankruptcy in the 20th century. Carey makes use of original footage, vintage and contemporary photographs and rare film. He includes commentary from seven area historians: Eugene Dauner, Dale Flansburg, Robert Haines, John M. Ham, William Helmer, Evan Jennings and Bob Mohowski. ©2014. Running time is 95 minutes. $19.95.

"Engagingly told. Three and a half stars." ~ Video Librarian

Additional Documentary DVDs by Tobe Carey

The Catskill Mountain House and the World Around gives a fascinating account of America's first great mountaintop hotel. This is also a tale of romantic tourism, Hudson River School art, and cutthroat competition in New York's Northern Catskills. For 140 years, from 1823 to 1963, the Catskill Mountain House stood atop the Catskill high peaks as a symbol of the Gilded Age. Beginning in the 1850s, the Laurel House, the Hotel Kaaterskill, the Overlook Mountain House and the Grand Hotel also became world-famous vacation spots that attracted business tycoons, artists and presidents. This story by Tobe Carey of the rise and fall of the Catskill Mountain House is a compelling tale of steamboat and railroad empires, bitter rivalries, exclusive private preserves, fabulous art and picturesque landscapes that celebrate the Catskills as part of the American Grand Tour and as America's first wilderness. ©2010. Running time is 80 minutes. $19.95.

"Highly recommended (three+ stars)." ~Video Librarian

Deep Water tells the true story of the Catskill Water System development. It is a heroic tale of heartbreak, political maneuvering, lost villages, brilliant engineering and a power struggle between New York City and the Catskills. This film includes over 900 vintage images, rare films and interviews with historians and residents. Produced by Tobe Carey of Willow Mixed Media with music by Abby Newton, Robbie Dupree, Artie Traum, Bill Keith and Cindy Cashdollar, among others. ©2005. Running time is 45 minutes. $19.95.

Sweet Violets is the surprising saga of the Violet Capital of the World—Rhinebeck, New York. In the Gilded Age and beyond, sweet violets were the flower of choice for Valentine's Day and Easter, and they were frequently used as a fragrant corsage. By 1912, Rhinebeck was producing a quarter of all cultivated violets grown in the United States. Nearly 400 violet houses dotted backyards and fields in Rhinebeck, Red Hook, Hyde Park, and towns throughout Dutchess County. At Easter more than a million blooms were shipped by train to Eastern and Midwestern cities. Dutchess County became known as "The Violet Belt," and Rhinebeck was "The Buckle on the Belt." The flower's popularity lasted well beyond World War II; the last "Violet King" didn't close his greenhouses until 1979. This documentary by Tobe Carey includes interviews with historians, rare film footage and photographs, 19th century music, postcards, poetry and art. ©2012. Running time is 40 minutes. $19.95.

Stanley's House is a film by Tobe Carey about Stanley J. Kunitz, the former Poet Laureate of the United States. Kunitz was born in 1905 in Worcester, Massachusetts, six weeks before his father committed suicide in a public park. When he was thirteen, Stanley's family moved into a new house his mother had built at the edge of the city. In 2003, Tobe Carey learned that he had been raised in the same house and had the same bedroom as Kunitz. Carey interweaves the story of Stanley's family with his own memories. Historical and cultural details are added by Kunitz; by scholar and poet, Carle Johnson; and by Norma Feingold, curator of the Worcester Historical Museum. Included are several readings by Kunitz. ©2007. Running time is 50:50 minutes. $19.95.

Documentary DVDs About the Woodstock State of Mind

The Bus is the remarkable story of a vehicle that became an icon. Anyone who has ever driven a Volkswagen Bus already knows that it's a nostalgic tale of freedom, love, friendship, breakdowns and adventures. The Bus playfully explores how a post-WWII German utility vehicle evolved into a cultural icon that represents freedom and the open road, defining and connecting generations of fun-loving people everywhere. Beginning in Germany with the vehicle's creation, and ramping up to a wild ride that changes the world forever, The Bus is an adventure from start to finish. From Wolfsburg to Hollywood, from Burning Man to Baja, people from all walks of life share their stories and their passion in this light-hearted DVD. ©2012. Running time is 63 minutes. $19.95.

Indian Point Nuclear Power Plant looms just 35 miles from Times Square. With over 50 million people living in close proximity to the aging facility, its continued operation has the support of the plant's operators and the NRC (Nuclear Regulatory Commission). But it has stoked a great deal of controversy in the surrounding community, including a vocal anti-nuclear contingent concerned that what happened at Japan's Fukushima nuclear plant could happen here. Amid the brewing fight for clean energy and the catastrophic possibilities of government complacency, director Ivy Meeropol presents a balanced argument about the issues surrounding nuclear energy and offers a startling reality check for our uncertain nuclear future. ©2015. Running time is 94 minutes. $19.95.

A Farmer's Road tells the story of how two Ph.D. soil scientists traded the security of academic tenure for the relentless challenges and economic uncertainty of operating a Grade A goat dairy and farmstead creamery in central Illinois. Surrounded by commodity-based agribusiness, they strive to embody the core principles of sustainability, showcasing artisan goat milk products during slow-food dinners on the farm. Their mission to educate the public about locally sourced small-farm diversity is changing the American food system one meal at a time. ©2016. Running time is 75minutes. $19.95.

Honeybees have been mysteriously disappearing across the planet, literally vanishing from their hives. Known as Colony Collapse Disorder, this phenomenon threatens the loss of much more than honey, since we depend on honeybees to pollinate one third of the food on our tables.

Vanishing of the Bees chronicles the innermost thoughts and feelings of beekeepers and scientists as they fight to preserve the honeybees and make it through another day. Featuring experts like Michael Pollan, this award-winning documentary also presents a platform of solutions, encouraging audiences to be the change they want to see in the world. ©2010. Running time is 87 minutes. $19.95.

A DVD About “Sprit of Woodstock” Culture

The Fantasy Makers: J.R.R. Tolkien, C.S. Lewis and George MacDonald

Tolkien, Lewis and MacDonald were pioneers of the fantasy genre and their impact is unmistakable. Their works—exploring Middle-earth, Narnia, and other tales of redemption, sacrifice, and the battle of good and evil—have become best-selling books and blockbuster movies. Contemporary fantasy writers such as J.K. Rowling grew up inspired by their works. All three were deeply committed Christians, and their spiritual convictions permeate their writing. They engaged and challenged from the pulpit of imagination, speaking truth through fantasy. The Fantasy Makers examines the spiritual influences of these fantasy pioneers and the lasting impact their works have on our present-day culture. ©2018. Running time is 88 minutes. $19.95.

DVDs About “Sprit of Woodstock” Music

50 Years with Peter, Paul and Mary is a documentary by four-time Emmy Award-winning producer/director Jim Brown, and features rare and previously unseen television footage, including a BBC program from the early 1960s that embodies many of the trio’s best performances and most popular songs. This is Peter, Paul and Mary at their peak, a time when the influential trio dominated the Billboard music charts. From the group’s emergence in Greenwich Village, to the Civil Rights and Anti-War era of the 1960s, through the decades of their later advocacy and music, to Mary Travers’ moving memorial, and finally to the present, this intimate exploration of the trio reveals the impact of their artistry and activism on their generation and the world. ©2014. Running time is 78 minutes. $19.95.

Jerry Garcia and The U.S. Counterculture~Two-DVD Set, $19.95

San Francisco Daze: Reminiscences From the Summer of Love (Vol. 1) features interviews with Peter Albin, Bill Graham, Ken Kesey, Jerry Garcia, Bob Weir, Phil Lesh, Paul Kantner and Wavy Gravy. This DVD explores the San Francisco Underground, its origins, personalities, music, art, events, politics, drugs and ultimate decline, with the people who made it happen. ©2017. Running time is 87 minutes.

Dawn of the Dead: The Grateful Dead and the Rise of the San Francisco Underground (Vol. 2) traces the movements, events and story of the definitive band of the psychedelic era, The Grateful Dead. Also included is footage of such other bands as Big Brother & The Holding Company, Jefferson Airplane, The Charlatans and Quicksilver Messenger Service. The DVD features new interviews with Grateful Dead manager Rock Scully; the Dead’s experimental pioneer, Tom “T.C.” Constanten; and Big Brother’s Peter Albin—plus comment and criticism from Rolling Stone’s Anthony De Curtis, Village Voice’s Robert Christgau and Mojo’s Ritchie Unterberger. In addition, this documentary includes rare live and studio footage of the Grateful Dead. ©2017. Running time is 138 minutes. $19.95.

An additional DVD About “Sprit of Woodstock” Music

ABBA Forever: The Winner Takes It All

This is the definitive, up-to-date telling of the ABBA story. It took Gold at the New York Festivals in the music documentary category in 2021 and was a winner of five Remi Gold Awards at Worldfest Houston in 2020. This documentary includes interviews with all four members of the band, as well as guests Pete Waterman, Bono, Donny Osmond, Neil Sedaka and more. It includes concert clips of sixteen hit songs such as “Waterloo,” “Dancing Queen,” “The Winner Takes All,” and Mamma Mia.” The run time is 51 minutes. ©2021. $19.95.

Woodstock Music CDs

The Band: And Then There Were Four. This superb live recording, taken from an FM radio broadcast of The Band playing at Mandel Hall during their first reunion tour following the group’s split in 1976, was nothing short of a roaring success. Despite the absence of Robbie Robertson, the “other four” were hungry to get back on the road and in July 1983 they did just that. They played largely the old classics and a few covers, plus one song not previously performed by The Band—Rick Danko’s “Java Blues.” The energy and ambience of the night were clearly electric, and the audience was in raptures. ©2015. Running time is 60 minutes. $14.99.

Dreamland: Jennifer Maidman is a British musician, singer, producer and writer. She has toured and collaborated with such top-notch musical acts as Joan Armatrading, Paul Brady, Boy George, Chris De Burgh, Van Morrison and Bonnie Raitt. In 2016 she began work on her first solo album. Studio bandmates included Annie Whitehead (Elvis Costello), Jerry Marotta (Peter Gabriel) and David Torn (David Bowie). Her CD, Dreamland, has just been released. This album is powered by a funky beat and is by turns inspiring and lushly atmospheric. Some of the subliminal pyrotechnics are no doubt due to Jennifer’s training as a therapist and member of the British Association for Counseling and Psychotherapy. © 2017. With 17 songs, running time is 77 minutes. $10.00.

“I listened to the journey! Dreamland has given me so much inspiration and more.” ~Chris Kimsey, Producer of The Rolling Stones’ Under Cover and Steel Wheels

Knowledge Cards About Woodstock and Beyond

Flags of the World. Which national flag includes an image of a vicuña (cousin to the llama)? Which displays a blue chakra wheel? The Eagle of Saladin? Featuring flags from six continents (sorry, Antarctica!), the 48 cards in this quiz deck provide individual flag images on the card fronts and profile the countries they fly over on the backs. Each card gives information about the history and symbolism behind the colors, coats of arms, and other national emblems (yes, even the vicuña). You'll find loads of other facts, such as each nation's capital city, system of government, currency, national anthem, and approximate population. Perfect for independent learning or as a multiplayer game among friends, this deck of Knowledge Cards will spark your interest in vexillology—the study of flags. $12.95.

New!

What Do You Know About Greek Mythology? The ancient Greeks were not the first to invent gods to explain Earth's creation or natural phenomena, but they were the first to fashion them in their own image, only bigger and stronger. Immortal, to be sure, but just as flawed as their human counterparts, Greek gods and goddesses were linked to or personified human emotions and activities—among them love, jealousy, truth, wisdom, poetry, music, and war. And illicit dalliances, vengeful wives, and assorted acts of mayhem abounded in their never-ending lives—along with your everyday wreaking of storms, earthquakes, and shipwrecks upon hapless humans. Irreverent, entertaining, and informative, this 48-card deck of Knowledge Cards will give you a crash course in the convoluted subject of Greek mythology. Definitely not for the prudish! $12.95.

Wilderness Survival Skills. This well-designed 48-card pack from the Sierra Club fits in any pocket and provides lifesaving tips via a Q&A quiz format. Each card poses a question on the front: How might you retrieve a lost companion? How would you treat frostbite, snakebite and heat stroke? Answers are provided on the back of the card. These are the work of a lifelong outdoorsman and river guide. They're excellent company, at home or on a wilderness trip. $12.95.

Cannabis: A Quiz Deck on Marijuana. Question: When was the first recorded human usage of hemp? Answer: In the Stone Age—and we don't mean your college years. And yeah, okay, that answer might be a gimme, but the dozens of other questions in this quiz deck on marijuana are sure to test your cannabis IQ. Do you know when cannabis was first introduced into the United States Pharmacopeia, or what afflictions are said to be eased when CBD interacts with the brain's signaling systems? And what chemical compound in cannabis makes your appetite sit up and say hello, munchies? Play this game solo or with a few of your best buds, after which you'll be able to riff on the famous founding father who grew rope, not dope, down on the farm. And you'll know the answer to that burning question about the origin of 420. The 48-fact filled cards are a great source of condensed information—all in deck the size of a pack of playing cards. $12.95.

Knowledge Cards About Woodstock and Beyond

Herbs and Medicinal Plants. Before the science of pharmacology was confined to the laboratory, all medicines were remedies made from plant materials. Healers—from the Neolithic shamans to the eminent physicians of the Enlightenment—made their own poultices, tinctures, and salves from plants that grew in their gardens or in the wild. Few abilities were more important to a doctor than precise identification of the correct flora. The 48 beautiful illustrations in this deck—accompanied by text describing the appearances and uses of the plants—introduce readers to a range of natural remedies, from goldenseal to St. John’s Wort. $12.95.

Constellations. People have been inventing constellations—imaginary shapes made by mentally connecting the astral dots—for at least 6,000 years. Constellations are celestial landmarks that provide mnemonic assistance to astronomers, farmers and sailors—and quiet pleasure to the rest of us. This deck of 48 cards presents a concise but highly informative look at 47 star groups. Each card has a chart of a constellation on the front; its position and area, brightest star, number of visible constituent stars and zodiac sign appear on the back, with notes about the constellation’s origin and history. The forty-eighth card has a glossary of astronomical terms on the front and general information about the heavens on the back. $12.95.

Knock on Wood: A Quiz Deck of Common Customs. Ever wonder why horse-shoes are considered lucky and umbrellas opened inside are unlucky? Or where the high five came from? Why brides wear white and mourners black? (It’s not as clear-cut as you think.) This deck of forty-eight common customs tracks down the origins (or theories, anyway) of things we do every day, even if not everyone the world over does them the same. Drive on the right, or the left? Slurp your soup, or not? And why, oh why, are the buttons on men’s and women’s clothes on opposite sides?! Test your knowledge of these cultural habits and see how many thumbs-ups you get! Cheers! $12.95.

The U.S. Constitution. For more than two centuries, the Constitution has weathered social, political, economic and technological change with a vitality that affirms the genius and foresight of its framers. Drawn from Donald A. Ritchie’s Our Constitution (Oxford University Press, 2006), this deck of 48 cards explores the Constitution in a lively Q&A format. For example: Is it possible to sue a member of Congress for libel? Who can be impeached, and in what court can they be tried? Is there a constitutional right to privacy? Why was the voting age lowered to eighteen? $12.95.

Dinosaurs. Trevor Bounford's day job is to convey lots of information in immediately comprehensible graphic form. He is also a noted science-and-biology illustrator. Bounford has put his talent and experience in both fields to work in conceiving, researching, writing, designing and illustrating this unique deck of 48 cards. One side of each card presents a painting of a dinosaur, with its name spelled formally and phonetically. The card's opposite side features a graphic comparison between the subject saurian's size and that of a human; a compact, instantly grasped taxonomic lineage; a timeline showing when the beast appeared and when it went extinct; and its known range and its physical and behavioral points of interest. $12.95.

Animal Spirits. To the ancients, all things in nature had sacred or spiritual meaning. The world was inhabited by the higher beings, who took the form of fantastical creatures that were part animal, part human, and exceedingly powerful. These beings are the spirit guides who lead the departed to the next life, heal the sick, and restore balance and harmony to a troubled world. The tribal healers knew the animal spirits well. They journeyed beyond the threshold of ordinary reality to invoke the power of these great beings. The 48 paintings by Susan Seddon Boulet reproduced in this deck resonate with an ethereal energy; each is accompanied by a brief description of the animal's power and symbolism in various cultures. $12.95.

Goddesses from Greek, Roman, Celtic, Native American, Egyptian, Middle Eastern, Scandinavian and many other traditions are gathered here to enhance our understanding of the roles of the feminine deity. In learning about these archetypes, we come to recognize them in ourselves—to gain a clearer perception of our powers and weaknesses and to achieve a common thread, a link to the collective unconscious. Susan Seddon Boulet's magnificent paintings and Michael Babcock's insightful text offer a brilliant vision of the female pantheon. $12.95.

Animal & Bird Tracks. How do you tell a badger's track from a porcupine's, or a red-headed woodpecker's from a red-tailed hawk's? It might behoove you to know if those tracks you're following belong to a skunk, by the way! Become an expert outdoor detective by studying the footprints illustrated in this 48-card deck—or just carry it with you on your next outing. A picture of a bird's or animal's footprints appears on one side of each card, while the other side names the creature and presents its physical characteristics, footprint size, and diet, and notes on its natural history. Animal & Bird Tracks is the perfect companion for boosting your observation skills to ensure your optimum outdoor experience. $12.95.

What Do You Know About Rocks, Minerals and Gems? Pristine diamonds, radiant rubies and sapphires, and other gorgeous gems captivate us with their extraordinary beauty and brilliance. But beyond their aesthetic appeal, the gems, minerals, and rocks of the world are essential to our very existence; they are the building blocks of the universe. This quiz deck presents a well-rounded sampling of mineral lore in a Q&A format, with a question—often accompanied by a color photograph—on the front and the answer on the back of each of the forty-eight cards. Together they offer a fascinating tour of the mineral kingdom, from the legendary Hope Diamond to corals and cultured pearls, dazzling crystalline caves, and the mysterious sarsens of Stonehenge. From the Smithsonian. $12.95.

Can You Pass the Citizenship Test? Here's your chance to have fun testing your knowledge of American civics, with 100 questions that U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services may ask anyone seeking to become a naturalized U.S. citizen. At least six correct answers out of ten randomly chosen questions are required to pass the test. Could you make the grade? What are two rights in the Declaration of Independence? Who was the President during World War I? Name three of the original 13 states. More than just facts and figures, questions cover principles of democracy, rights and responsibilities, historical events from colonial days to the present, and national symbols, geography, and holidays. Some questions may have more than one answer; possible answers are provided on the backs of the cards. Published in conjunction with the New York Historical Society. $12.95.

Native American History by Arlene Hirschfelder. Past meets present in this comprehensive and eye-opening deck of quiz cards on Native American history and culture. Trying to describe a group composed of over 560 distinct nations, who account for ten utterly distinct language groups and over 250 languages, whose recorded history stretches considerably longer than that of the United States, could drive a team of encyclopedists to despair—this stack of forty-eight cards succeeds by projecting a kaleidoscopic portrait of historical events, current circumstances, and notable figures, from a Pulitzer Prize winner to an Olympic gold medalist. On the front of each card is a question; on the back is a brief essay. Once you've quizzed yourself once or twice, you'll never forget how a Native American language contributed to the American effort in World War II, how tribal governments work, and how non-literate groups kept track of their past. $12.95.

African American History. Spotighting notable people and significant events, this deck of Knowledge Cards offers an insightful look at the wide-ranging achievements of African American women and men. Each card includes a photographic portrait on one side and a concise, informative essay about the featured individual on the other. This intriguing, fact-packed deck profiles 48 historical figures, from such celebrated luminaries as Frederick Douglass, Countee Cullen, and Mahalia Jackson to lesser known—but no less accomplished—people such as Bessie Coleman (pioneering aviator), Matthew Henson (explorer), and Benjamin Banneker (astronomer). $12.95.
